Reports of the earnings of the steel companies will be available for the June quarter within the next few weeks and it is anticipated that very good results will be shown by the good results will be shown by the general run of companies, because of the large volume of business handled. Less confidence is expressed, however, with regard to the showing mowever, with regard to the showing in the quarter just beginning.

While the automotive industry continues to operate at the high crest of production which has been reached by a steady climb during the past months, there is a slight note of hestiancy which was not in evidence at the date of our last report, says the June review of the Cleveland Federal Reserve bank. The seasonal reduction, however, is customary at this lime of the year. Some plants have reduced their schedules somewhat, while others are still running at capacity.

The Chicago Pheumatic Tool com-pany for the quarter ended March, 1923, reports net earnings, after fed-eral taxes and depreciation, availa-ble for dividends of $203,863.

The Packard Molor Car company in the first six months produced approx-imately 12,000 cars, against 5,500 for the same period of 1922 and 9,600 in the last half of 1922 July output is scheduled for 1.500 single sixes and 500 single eights.

PALOMAR"

AT THE APOLLO.

To make a picture dealing with runaway girls emertaining and thoroughly pleasing without being too critical, too preachy, too overdrawn, or using risque seenes to illustrate the author's thoughts, is not an easy thing to do, but it has been done with considerable success in "Wandering Daughters," now at the Apollo theater. So many pictures have been made dealing with modern girl and her escapades that that type is not appealing unless it carries the charm that "Wandering Daughters" does.

The story shows the contrast of two daughters and fathers, One father thought he understood his daughter, formed a companionship with her, trusted her in letting her do what she wished. Another father ruled his daughter much more strictly, and with a lack of understanding. James Young, director of the picture, makes these two lives interesting in their contrast.

Marjorie Daw, Noah Beery, William V. Mong and Marguerite de la Motte have leading roles. Scenes of interest follow closely. en.

"The right to live without nauscating vices of the profligate being forever flaunted in our faces, the right to be free from the by-products of unrightaousness which makes a Godless society one oure," he said.

"True liberty comes only from obedience to law," said Dr. Case.
"Liberty is too often conceived of as license." Criminal Cases Disgract

Griminal Cases Alisgrace.
He quoted Harry Emerson Fosdick on crime vecords of the United States, saying that in 1916 Chicago with its two and a half millions of unbabitants had 20 more murders than the whole of Great Britain and Wales with 28 000 100 persons and than the whole of Great Britain and Wales with 36,000,000 persons, and in the same year the city of New York had exactly six times as many culpable homicides as the city of London. There were 8,372 culpable homicides in the United States in 1916, and 115 executions: in 1917, there were 7,803 homicides and 85 executions; in 1918, 7,667 culpable homicides and once more 85 executions.

Those presons, residents generally of Janesville who found themselves far away on Sunday morping, will perhaps never know what they missed in a perfect summer day. Seaside and prices. mountain may intrigue us as we look at the illustrations of lazy and languid humanity doing nothing more than worry over the hotel bill. Here at home the air was of the finest, the old front porch was more inviting than Arcady, the sun was warm and comfortable but made no enemies, and the topaz sky was reminiscent of Nice and Out in the country there was panorama of beauty unequalled. To be sure, there were no rugged mountains and no far away sea with white capped waves dashing against some shore or lazily rolling over a sandy beach, but there was a picture at every turn, of peaceful rural life, of rolling land , and landscape. brown roadways cutting through green fields and ripened grain yellowing the hillsides, with white and red cattle adding to the Landseer painting. You may note the different shades of green from the deep, almost black, of the corn, to the olive green of hillside pastures and partially ripened rye. The signs indicate a change. The dry Janesville Gazette contained a column on the wet side by David Lawrence Wednesday night that sounded as if clipped from the Minute Man, organ of the Association Against the Prohibition Amend-ment. The Gazette has been reading "Mene Tekel Upharsin" on the palace wall.

Far be it from such. The Gazette is a newspaper first. It prints the letters of David Law- basis of the weight it resisted. rence, one of the brightest and most versatlie correspondents in Washington. It never colors any news nor would it leave from its columns someelse sald because it might not accord with the editorial belief of the newspaper. The Gazette does not agree always with David Lawrence. He is an independent person. What he says is David Lawrence, not the Janesville Gazette: If the Gazette reads anything in the news from day to day it is that the bootleggers who try to break down law enforcement and their newspaper supporters who weaken law by attempting to show that the prohibition law is something to violate, and that it is cute and cunning to do so, are in harder lines than ever.

For every gase of stomach ache cured by whiskey there were fifty wives beaten up and fifty men, arriving home drunk, with an empty pay envelope and hell to pay instead at the home. For every old person saved from the grave by whiskey-these old persons who have had tears enough in the Jefferson County Union shed over them to raise the water in Mud Lake a footfor each old person so saved by whiskey or any of the patent nostrums with 55 per cent of whiskey which used to be sold as nerve and old age rejuvenators, there were in the happy, glad days of the saloon, so many people dead from drink that the alcoholic wards were the undertakers' delight. There were more by thousands than die, even now, from drinking frozen heat, wine of pepsin, wood alcohoi, varnish off paint, red ink, white mule, Dago red, butyl moonshine, synthetic gin, toxically poisoned home brew, and all the other horrors which have been permitted to grow up by the very support of law violation, men who otherwise seem same and sound. The Gazette stands, squarely with President Harding on this question and let no one overlook that fact-that the law against alcoholic liquor is a constitutional one and all the conspirators If to be true to every trust, careful in attention against it from the Jefferson county Union up to to details, unswerving in a code of right and

AMERICAN CHINA BEST

Washington .-- If best means the most durable hen this country is producing the best china in he world-botter than the best of the wars imported from France and Germany. een established in a series of tests conducted in a laboratory of the Bureau of Standards and undertaken in cooperation with a number of the leading hotels in eight of the larger cities of the United States and Canada. If the efficiency tests, being made by the hotels hemselves, substantiate the results shown in laboratory investigations here, it is to be expect ed made-in-America china will be used almost exclusively by the hotels, entes and restaurants of the country. This will mean not only more business for American producers; but a saving of millions of dollars to the industry that caters to the inner wants of man.

Breakage is a big item in the hote! business ometimes figured at 20 per cent a year. One of the leading hostelries in the East reports an annual expenditure averaging $60,000 as necessary in the replacement of dishes and glassware broken in the exigencies of service. A Chicago hotel estimates that it spends $35,000 annually for the imported chinaware alone which it re oulres to maintain its equipment. It is apparent able brand of ware will be putting a plug in a waste pine that is draining large sums of money from an important business.

Everybody may benefit from this saving it is is properly distributed. Capital may have a little nore profit, labor may receive a higher wage and the public should get its share through lowered

In carrying out the lesis at the Bureau of Standards there has been literally a wholesale smashing of plates, cups, saucers, glasses, tumblers, et cetera. The experiments are not made by establishing a certain standard of pressure or blow which the ware must withstand in order to be classed as satisfactory. On the contrary, every sample that is tested is broken in the course of the experiment and a careful record is kept that will show its powers or qualities of resis-

In determining the relative strengths of different kinds of ware, a novel dish-breaking machine is used. It consists of a heavy metal weight against which the piece is held, and of a steel ball attached to a pendulum which is let fall against broken at the first blow, the ball is swung back farther for the second, or until there has been a thorough smash.

A carefully graduated scale, which is a part of the pendulum, permits of reading the arc through which the ball descends as it swings against the sample, and the record kept by the observer shows the resistance up to the breaking

This same device is also used in trying out the strength of strips of glass and in testing glasses and tumblers. In the experiments with the latter the glass or tumbler is placed in a holder with its bottom exposed to the blow of the steel ball. All the samples that will withstand a blow of the ball that is equivalent to dropping the glass or turnbler a distance of four feet on a concrete floor are egarded as eminently satisfactory for heavy use.

In some of the glass-testing experiments a machine that can exert a pressure equal to 100.000 pounds is used. It is so constructed that a tremendous force is concentrated on one point of the sample, and it is so powerful that it can smash the strongest wire glass into almost a pulverized The pressure required in each instance to break the sample is recorded on a gauge.

Along with the tests of tableware of all kinds closely related experiments are being conducted by the government experts. For instance, window that will demonstrate the wind pressure it will resist. To get at this a device has been developed that uses water pressure to simulate wind pressure and it is said that it can be so regulated that it will duplicate the freaks and caprices of all the

All varieties of glass used in art and industry are also being subjected to strength tests. The samples are cut to a size two inches in width and eighteen inches in length. In the test the specimen is supported at either end as it lies flat and a saddle attached to the central part is connected with a swinging arm similar to that of an ordinary weighing scale. A standardized bucket is placed on the far end of this arm so that it will opened. The shot flowing into the bucket resting on the scale beam which is fastened to the saddle exerts a constantly increasing strain on the sample When the glass breaks the bucket drops and hits a trigger which stops the flow of shot and the strength of the glass is computed on the

In the dairy business there is a no inconsiderable item of waste-which is of course transferred to the consuming public-due to the lack of unimity in the sizes and markings of milk bottles as required by different states. One state may equire a milk bottle to be filled to the top, while another fixes a full mark a quarter of an inch rom the top, and it is said that, there are as many of twenty-three varieties of milk hottles in

These bottles are blown in molds made of sleet. which the necessary lettering and marks have been carved by hand. These molds are expensive and the manufacturer must have a set conforming to the laws of each state in which he does It is now proposed to standardize sizes and markings by agreement among manufacturers and dairymen and by legislation authorizing the use of these standard hottles all over the countay. The government, through the Bureau of Standards, prescribes standards of weights and measures and it is contended that it should do this in the case of milk bottles. This would make nilk bottles cheaper to the dairymen and it is assumed a part of the saving would be passed along to the public.

The government has turned the glassware tests to account by revamping the specifications for glass fumblers used by the army. As a result, Uncle Sam is said to save large amounts of money every year in the nurchase of glasswore. Inaidentally, it may be said, he is also finding out the varying extremes of heat and cold to which different wares may be subjected where mechanical dish-washing machines are used. For the first time in the history of crockery production, also, a scientific study is being made of the fine network or cobweb of cyacks which develop in inferior grades of dishes, to ascertain the cause and what may be done to eliminate

When the war broke out Gouraud, then a colonel, was recalled to France and spent the winter of 1914 in conducting the almost forgotten offersive of the Argonne around the Four de Paris. In the spring of the following year he was sent to the Dardanelles in command of the French expeditionary corps. The fighting in the first few desperate weeks of the campalgn was crowded into the tiny area between the front line trenches and the sea. Gouraud's bravery soon became a legend among the French and British troops. On June 6, 1915, he was struck by a shell which burst into a tent hospital which he was visiting and so seriously in-jured him that he lost his right arm.

After his recovery, in the winter of 1915-16 he was appointed to command the Fourth army, which held some fifty miles of trenches on the Champagne front. For a few weeks in the Champagne tront. For a lew weeks in the spiring of 1917 he was in Morocco replacing Lyautey, who had been recalled to Paris to become minister of war but Lyautey was again sent to Morocco and Courand returned to his head-quarters at Chalons.

Being an Exploit in the Career of Hamilton Cleek, Detective Copyright, 1922, by Doubleday, Page & Co., and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate of New York City.

SYNOPSIS.

In deadly fear of the lives of her father and others in the Duggan home at Aygon castle, Maud Duggan seeks help from Scotland Yard. Hamilton Cleek, under the name of Deland, takes up the attempt to solve the mystery of the Spinning Wheel, which on occasions and without the aid of human hands starts running. Invariably a death follows. The head of the house is the old irascible Sir Andrew Duggan, his son by a first wife, the daughter and a second wife—a French woman and her sen, Cyril. It is believed that the wife is plotting for the death of all in order that her son may be the heir of the estates. Cleek starts his investigations. He makes a number of acquaintances and finds that Ross, the eldest son, is an electricity and adding other modern innovations. It is believed that the second wife is attempting to have Ross distincted and her own son. Cyril, made the heir. At a family gathering the leif. At a family gathering the leif. "Ah—who? That is the question, my friend," returned Cleek quietly, stooping over the bowed white head with its thatch of snowy hair, and tracing the path of the builet through it in his mind's eye. "H'm! Went through here and came out—Gad! here's the puncture! Right here! So that somewhere in this room that bullet has lodged itself, and when that is found we shall have our finger upon the pulse of this dreadful tragedy more surely than we know . Heigho! It's two-thirty, and in this semi-darkness little to be done until the morning sends us its kindly rays. So we must leave things as they are for the present, and later go over the whole thing with clear heads and rested minds. Sergeant, I put you in charge. A man outside of the window there, please, and another one in this room, and still another outside the door, and if any one tries to get in or out, blow your whistle and I'll be with you in a jiffy . Come, Mr. Duggan. You're looking, terribly white and fagged. Let's have a whisky-and-soda—if you'd be so good as to extend your hospitality so far—and then I'll make myself a shake-down in the next-room, if you've no objection. I've given order for no one to be allowed to leave the house until morning and until parole is given to de so, so you need have no fear of one of the murderers escaping."

"I—I—What's that you say?"
stammered out Ross; swinging round and looking at Cleek with drawn brows and flashing eyes. "You've given orders in my house! I say, you know, this is a bit thick; and—and who the dickens do you think would have done the thing in this place, may I ask? You're rather overstepping the bounds of common hospitality. Mr. Deland, in your role of private detective. And I must ask you to leave the ordering of things to me."

CHAPTER X . The Woman in the Case?

There was no call during the long watches of the night, no untoward happenings of any sort. Cleek, sleeping with one eye open, rose now and again and crept silent-footed out inagain and crept silent-looted out into the passage, doing a little bit of

But nothing of any moment happened. And so when at length the house

Left alone, therefore, in the early morning sunlight of that perfect June day, Cleek made his way into the still room, closed the door behind him, and then, glancing up, caught sight of the stolid back of the constable on duty outside of the courtyard window, and not being wishful to enter into conversation with him, began to poke about of his own accord.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A friend of mine took me to an all-day picnic always liked him, but he has some quier ways and is very fealous. While at the picnic he left me alone quite a bit and at first I felt very unhappy and just like a wallflower. Then another boy saw me and stayed with me until lunch time. He did not have a girl there.

At lunch time I hunted up, the boy who had invites me to the picnic and said it was time to eat. He was quiet all through lunch and hardly said a word to me. This made me very angry, and I didn't say much cither, After lunch he went off again and left me alone, It wasn't long before the other boy came back and we had a very good time together.

TO GET DIAMONDS Act for Diamond importers and dealers, commenting on a recent prediction that prices will advance 10 to 20 per cent by September, agreed that prices were firm and tending upward. Diamond sales in the United States were $26,000,000 in 1923 $51,000,000.

In 1922 $51,000,000.

Julius Wodiska, a prominent local diamond importer, says: "All sizes of first-class stones are selling at firm prices. Business has greatly improved since last year, but it has not yet reached the peak of 1913 and it is doubtful if it ever will. In that year, owing to war prosperity, diamond sales were the largest in the history of the United States.

"War time wages allowed many."

"War time wages allowed many workers to buy diamonds, and a great many bought first class stones until supplies were exhausted. The London Syndicate continues to closely control the output of rough.' Cutting establishments in Amsterdam and Antwerp are busy."

and Antwerp are busy."

Other prominent sellers of diamonds point out that prices have been advanced in the cutting centers abroad within the last month. The New York Federal Reserve Bank report for April says diamond sales were almost twice as large as April, 1922, more than twice as large han 1919 or 1920.

Early this year diamond cutters, polishers, and sawyers here received a 10 per cent wage increase. The a 10 per cent wage increase. The scale had previously ranged from $50 to $104.for 44 hours' work. London reported Americans as buying $7,618,388 dlamonds in that city in 1922, compared with than $2,000,000 in 1921. Mid imports into America this year of cut or partly cut diamonds are about $500,000, or twice as large as a year ago.

The Department of Mines and Industries of the Union of South Africa

eports the diamond output in 1923 as 669,558 carats, a decrease of 160

on carats from 1921. The value was estimated at £2,265,671. The number of carats sold was 1,231,374, valued at £10,940,000.

The Fremier Diamond Company. Transvaal, for the year ended October, 1922, showed a revenue from diamonds of £253,934, compared with £439,636 in 1921. In 1920 the revenue from diamonds was more than £2,000,000. On April 17, 1923, the company deviate the £250,000. the company declared the 300 per cent dividend on the deferred stock. No dividends were paid in 1921 or 1922, but 1100 per cent was declared in 1920.

What Is Europe's Real Sentiment Toward the United States

Opinion is a result of viewpoint—and viewpoint is shaded and phased by personal consideration. Much is being written of the political, economic and social problems as they exist in Europe today, by native and American correspondents. Much is being written on this side of the Atlantic-interpretive of the United States' attitude on these international questions. Both are inspired by viewpoints—each true in its essence—but out of joint when attempt is made to make these viewpoints harmonize.

What does Europe really want of America and what does America expect of Europe?

It is very important that we in America should know exactly what lies deep in the thought of Europe concerning this country, in its foreign relations. So Mr. David Lawrence has gone abroad to study the situation-with open mind, unformed opinions and unprejudiced attitude. He will dig under the news surface-interviewing the men who are leading in public action and those who are of opposing minds in Great Britain and Continental Europe. He is going to put his finger upon the pulse of the populace in these countries—and feel out sentiment and opinion.

He is to find out-not what isolated individuals may think or conjecture-BUT WHAT THE FACTS ACTUALLY ARE

Mr Lawrence is well known to the big men of Europe, and will have ready admission to their private audience chambers. As a member of the newspaper contingent at the Paris treaty-making conference, he won their confidence—and thus he will be able to meet them upon peculiarly friendly and advantageous grounds - conducive to the success of his mission.

Mr. Lawrence always finds out the basic facts—and has an interpretive power that is wholly reliable. His cabled articles will appear in Janesville exclusively in Gazette-beginning July 17.

This series—from beginning to end—will form a most interesting and valuable digest of Europe's hopes and aspirations as they relate to the United States-her attitude toward us upon all questions of mutual concern, and how she translates our opinions and actions.

If you want to be accurately informed upon questions that must be definitely settled sooner or later you should read each and every one of these articles. Every day in The
